BHUTAN - Information

The climate in Bhutan varies according to altitude and region, due to the country's mountainous topography.
Here are the main characteristics:

◆ Subtropical Climate

In the southern valleys, such as Phuntsholing, the climate is hot and humid, with high summer temperatures (up to 30-35°C) and mild winters.

◆ Temperate Climate

In central areas, such as Thimphu (the capital), the climate is moderate, with mild summers (15-25°C) and cold, but not extreme, winters.

◆ Alpine climate

In high mountain regions, such as Jigme Dorji National Park, temperatures can be very cold, with snow in winter and sub-zero temperatures.

Bhutan also receives a lot of precipitation, especially during the green season (June to September).

Best time to Travel: March to May and September to November
